FREEDOM OF THE PRINT

Choose the fabric you prefer.

Digital printing can be used both on white-based fabrics, thus yielding total printability, and on colored bases, where it is possible to print in a way that produces an overlapping color effect. Total freedom to choose your design, with the possibility of obtaining continuous patterns, but also of designs that follow the shapes of your furniture; in this case, the cutting shapes will be inserted directly on the fabric during printing.

A UNIQUE STYLE

Develop new designs or assist the customer in choosing colors: the Flukso Style Department.

Flukso has created its own Style Department to support customers in all customisation steps, supporting them in making technical and color choices. Customers can choose whether to have an original drawing reproduced, whether to create their own design with the support of the Flukso Style Department, or whether to rely on the Style Department to choose or create an exclusive ad hoc pattern.

A VERSATILE SOLUTION

Serial production, customisation of single pieces and sampling: the versatility of digital printing.

With digital printing, it is possible to personalise fabrics both in terms of color and design. Thanks to its flexibility, it can be mass produced, also allowing to create your own totally customised collections, or, it can be leveraged to customise individual pieces, which is an important option to decorate commercial settings. Finally, it is useful for sampling to allow you to check the look of a fabric before serial production.
